

GUIDED TOUR PREVIEW

Military Series:

The Japanese Occupation in Civic District

Synopsis:

To the current generation, The Japanese Occupation of Syonan-to is a distant memory, a memory that bears little relevance to our lives today. Yet, there are countless lessons from this period that we must remember, and untold stories of bravery and resilience that we must honour.

This tour is a walk to the sites related to the Japanese occupation within the Civic District. Through our engaging narrative, you will learn about the darkest period in Singapore's history; where trust amongst fellow countrymen was at its lowest; where people were forced to adopt a foreign culture; where children were made to grow their own food and adults were tortured for information.

At the end of this walk, our aim is to allow you to explore the value of freedom. Discover your own will to survive, and realise that unity at home is key to our continued peace.
